MAY RETIRE SHERIFF IAUKEA

POLITICAL DEVELOPMENTS WHICH MAY PREVENT A SECOND TERM FOR THE HEAD OF THE POLICE ADMINISTRATION—LEADING DEMOCRATS SAY HE CANNOT HAVE THEIR PARTY NOMINATION FOR ANOTHER TERM.

Iaukea cannot have the Democratic nomination for Sheriff again. So say leading Democrats who took part in the management of his last campaign. They are planning to fight him tooth and nail, all because of alleged broken promises. Of course the Republicans will not name him, and it looks as if he would have to run as an independent, or Civic Federation, nominee, if he seeks another term. The sheriff has not stated that he would be out for another term, but the Democrats have not waited for an announcement. The knives are out.

The discharge of Harry Juen and Fred Turill from the police force has brought out some of the secrets of the last campaign. Juen was slated for the nomination for deputy sheriff, when Iaukea suddenly announced that he would not run with Juen. There were some hurried conferences, ending in Juen's agreeing to withdraw, and a promise from Iaukea that if he was elected he would give Juen "the best job he had." This is the story the Democrats are telling.

Shortly after the election, the Democratic leaders called an indignation meeting, to do some "resolving."

HARD TIMES FOR SCHOONER LUKA

THE LITTLE SCHOONER LYING IN THE STREAM AWAITING A SECOND AUCTION.

Famous schooner Luka, to be again sold at auction by the United States Marshal, is lying in the stream eating herself.

A watchman is kept aboard at a salary of $3.75 per day and he eats three fifty-cent meals per diem and it costs seventy-five cents a day for a boat-boy to pack the grub to the watchman from shore, a total cost of $6 per day, so that a bill of something like $300 will have to be paid out of whatever the vessel brings at auction.

In this connection the sailors who have claims for wages will not be obliged to pay anything toward the expenses, for American law protects a sailor's pay in such matters and all expenses will have to be paid without touching what is coming to the sailors for wages.

No Will!

When a married woman dies, leaving no will, her husband gets one-third of her estate, and her children the balance of it.

If there are no children, the husband gets one-half of it, and the balance goes to the wife's father and mother or sister and brother, or the children of the latter.

Would you like to have your property divided in this way? Better have us draw up your will at once, and in the proper way. We'll do it free of charge, if you will make us one of your executors.

CANNOT START A NICKLEODEUM

SAN FRANCISCO MEN WANTED TO START NICKLE SHOW, BUT LICENSE IS TOO HIGH.

Two young men from San Francisco have been here for some days with a view of opening a "Nickleodeum" moving picture show, similar to the kind which have come greatly into vogue throughout the cities of the mainland in the past several years. They have however bumped up against the license fee of $5 per day which seems to have been designed to prevent Honolulu people from enjoying in a small way the amusements of the mainland, and which will probably be prohibitive in this case. The law imposes the tax of $5 on each performance at which an admittance fee is charged, regardless to the kind of show, and the Treasurer's department is unable to see any way around it, although Treasurer Campbell stated this morning that he personally should like to be able to do so.

QUEER STUNTS ON ASIA

EXTRAORDINARY QUARANTINE RULES HAVE KEPT THE CREW ABOARD A WHOLE YEAR.

There are a dozen or so white men, a number of them American citizens, who, as far as Honolulu is concerned, have been actual prisoners aboard the Occidental or Oriental steamship Asia, now in port, for twelve months or more, on account of quarantine. Some of these men stated their case to a representative of The Star this morning.

"I am an American citizen," said the spokesman, "and I have not been allowed to come ashore in Honolulu for over a year because I do not happen to be a sailor officer. Here you have had one case of cholera, and the vessel is in strict quarantine, while at the same time they allow cabin passengers and sailor officers ashore and some hundred or so stevedores aboard."

"It looks to me like an outrage. The cabin passengers and the sailor officers eat the same food we eat, from the same stores, cooked in the same pots and handled by the same cooks, so if we are not allowed ashore here because there is small-pox or cholera or plague in the Orient, we are no more likely to take disease ashore than are they; and if there is disease ashore here, there is no more likelihood of our taking it aboard than the one or two hundred stevedores."

"It is making fish of one and fowl of another without any shadow of consistency," said L. The captain and the purser and the mates walk ashore and I, who am in the pantry, must click my heels and twirl my thumbs aboard. They won't let you newspaper men aboard, but they let a hundred or so stevedores swarm all over the ship. It is the same thing in the Orient, coolies swarm all over the ship handling cargo but at the same time she is supposed to be in quarantine."

"In San Francisco if one of us white crew goes ashore the ship must have five days quarantine somewhere else because there's plague in San Francisco. Plague in San Francisco, cholera (one ancient case) in Honolulu and a little of everything evil to which flesh is heir in the Orient! Not that we're kicking against the necessity of quarantine, but we do say that the white crew should be allowed ashore as much as the officers and saloon passengers and as much as the stevedores are allowed aboard."

FINICKY CREW

*****
The Lascar crew of the British collier Baron Cawdor are not easy to please in the matter of food. Their religious scruples require that their meat be slaughtered in their sight. They refused to eat beef and mutton on arrival here, until the sheep and the calves were slaughtered in their sight and the proper ceremonies in regard to the letting of blood were performed. The Cawdor's master is also worried about his crew's curry and has patronized every grocery in Honolulu to gather the ingredients demanded.

SISTER OF MABELLE GILMAN-COREY CANNOT SECURE THEATRICAL ENGAGEMENT

NEW YORK, December 18.—Declaring he is at the end of his resources, Charles H. Gilman, after a month in New York claims to be unable to land theatrical engagement for his daughter Eunice, because New York managers fear to antagonize his son-in-law, William Ellis Corey, the steel king.

Eunice, Mabelle Gilman-Corey's younger sister, he says, bears such a strong resemblance to her rich sister that she is sometimes called a pocket edition of Mabelle Gilman-Corey, and this, more than the relationship, in his opinion, has contributed to the opposition he has encountered.

Mr. Gilman's original intention was to get engagements for both Eunice and her sister, Pearl, in a vaudeville sketch, but Pearl recently upset his plans by eloping.

With none of the theatrical managers did he have any success until he succeeded in getting a try-out for Eunice at the Victoria Theatre. William Hammerstein, he says, heard her sing three songs, and said she was very clever.

"Can you give her a chance here?" asked Mr. Gilman.

According to Mr. Gilman's story, Mr. Hammerstein replied that he had no opening this week or next, but that he could place her the following week. Mr. Gilman says Mr. Hammerstein told him to send his booking agent, Joseph Shea, around to sign a contract.

"Shea saw him," said Mr. Gilman, "and told me that Mr. Hammerstein had agreed to engage Eunice for the week beginning Monday, Dec. 9, at a salary of $300 a week and that he should see him at 3 o'clock Monday to sign the contract."

"When I saw Shea late he told me Mr. Hammerstein had changed his mind, that he said he could not give her an engagement at any price at any time. I asked him what was the reason and he told me I would have to figure it out for myself."

"Then he said: 'You know that William Ellis Corey has a box at the Manhattan Opera House, a barrel of money, some influential friends, and

JOLTED POLICE

JUDGE ANDRADE GIVES A DECISION THAT MEMBERS OF THE FORCE RESENT.

Judge Andrade this morning gave a decision that brought forth big kicks in police circles. The judge quietly turned down the testimony of six officers and acquitted a defendant charged with assaulting Officer Luahiwa.

M. J. Coito, a Portuguese who had been arrested on Christmas eve for assaulting Officer Luahiwa, was found not guilty, after Luahiwa had testified to the events leading up to the assault and Attorney Perry, who was defending Coito, admitted that the other five officers who were present at the time of the assault would testify to the same thing. Coito on the stand himself admitted that he had laid hands on Luahiwa.

The events leading up to the assault on an officer in performance of his duties was told by Coito, and he even admitted that he had used language that was a violation of the law.

However, Judge Andrade decided that Coito was acting in the right way, and after the attorneys on both sides had finished their closing speeches found the defendant not guilty.

William Hammerstein said that he had not agreed to give Eunice an engagement. He denied that Mr. Corey had been taken into consideration.

COSTLY MISHAP

MISHAP OF THE MANSHU MARU YESTERDAY WILL COST NEARLY $5,000.

It will cost just $4,500 to take out the broken mast of the Japanese S. S. Manshu Maru and put in a new one at this port.

While the vessel could proceed to Formosa without any great inconvenience on account of the ruined mast, crumpled yesterday by the sudden weight of an eleven-ton crystalizer being hoisted aboard and the boom upon which it hung being swung aft, contra to strain, through the parting of gear, the mast would have to be replaced before those portions of the sugar mills loaded in the after hold could be discharged at destination.

It will save time to put in a new mast here and the Honolulu Iron Works will do the job.

TORCH OF SCRIP SAVES LIFE.
SAN RAFAEL, Cal., Dec. 16.—"Casualty checks" have been the means of saving the life of Stewart Dunbar, an insurance broker of Honolulu.

With his foot caught in a cattle-guard he lighted a Clearing House certificate and, waving it around his head, prevented a handcar from running him down on the Northwestern Pacific Railroad last night.

The regular annual business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of Central Union Church will be held at the residence of Miss May Fatty, No. 1641 Anapuni Street. The regular reports of committees are expected at the time.

FINED FIVE FOR WORKING SUNDAY

EIGHT EMPLOYEES OF HUSTACE, PECK AND COMPANY ARE FOUND GUILTY.

Hara, Yota and Nebuchi who were caught fishing last night in the harbor by Officer Weed and by an inspector of the Board of Health were found guilty and fined $25 and costs each in the police court this morning.

Three drunks were on the calendar. One forfeited bail amounting to $5, and the other two were fined $3 and costs each.

The four gamblers who were caught shooting craps last night in the Kakaako district were fined $5 and costs each.

The eight employees of Hustace, Peck and Co., Ltd. who were arrested last Sunday for violating the Sabbath law, were found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $5 and costs each.

Frank Hustace manager of the company testified that Harbor Master Fuller had ordered him to remove from the Fort street wharf all the wood that was there belonging to the company, and in accordance to his wishes had done so. This did not constitute work of mercy or need according to the prosecution, and the feeling of the court in the matter was that if they could work, every person in town could work on Sunday and still be exempt from fines or imprisonment.

WHITING DYING

Judge Whiting who was taken ill a short time ago is in a very critical condition this afternoon, and it is doubtful if he will live through the night. Dr. Murray who is attending him stated this afternoon that he was sinking rapidly and the end was near.

TOO LATE FOR RETURN MAIL.

Honolulu business men had hoped to answer mail expected to be received in the S. S. Alameda this morning by the S. S. Asia sailing at 4 p. m. today. It is now too late for return correspondence, for the Alameda, up to 3 p. m. is not sighted. The agents, W. G. Irwin & Co., are unable to explain her delay on any score except that of probable bad weather, for she left San Francisco on time. It is possible that she is making seven-day trip on account of quarantine regulations.

MOB BURNS TOBACCO

(Associated Press Cable to The Star.)

RUSSELLVILLE, Ky., January 3.—A mob today raided this town, burned two tobacco warehouses, and shot several persons. The fight was precipitated over the agitation for holding the tobacco crop for higher prices.

This is a new outbreak of the war against the "tobacco trust" which has been acute in Kentucky for several years. The growers have tried various methods of holding back crops for better prices, and the feeling against the American Tobacco Company has several times reached the point where violence was resorted to.
